Sans Digital Announces New and Expanded Headquarter Location

City of Industry, CA – March 21, 2008 – Sans Digital, a leading provider of high performance storage subsystems, announces its corporate headquarter office relocation from Santa Fe Springs to City of Industry. The new office is located 16 miles from the original office, and is approximately four times its previous size.

Sans Digital has been undergoing tremendous growth since its establishment in 1995. As Sans Digital expands at a rapid speed, the new location and new floor plan will assist the company in better serving its clients and customers. The new building includes an extended warehouse space as well as fully equipped technical offices, resulting in more efficient production. With additional inventory space and smoother production, Sans Digital is now able to apply more force on developing new technology and create new innovative products to better satisfy our consumers.

“The convenient location of our new building and its up to date facilities will help us fully attend to our growing client base”, stated Grandy Chen, Sans Digital’s President. “A fresh environment will bring new perspectives in Sans Digital’s plan for the future.” This brand new location and environment is a milestone in Sans Digital’s establishment and development. The new building will provide more space for future expansion as Sans Digital continues to grow.

Sans Digital's new address is:

783 Phillips Dr.
City of Industry, CA 91748
